This section to be completed by the investor.

When liquidating an investment company product (mutual fund, interval fund, or UIT), I acknowledge the following:

- Capital gains tax liability may occur on any profits realized when liquidating an investment company product.
- It is my responsibility to consult with a tax advisor regarding any changes or exchanges regarding investments.
- Cambridge Investment Research, Inc. or Cambridge Investment Research Advisors, Inc. does not recommend the sale and purchase of securities with currently invested money unless an investor's investment or personal objectives may be better served by the change.
- Sales or liquidation of an investment company product to fund the purchase of another investment product may have tax consequences, other costs or penalties as a result of the sale or liquidation.
- Compensation may be paid on the investment to be liquidated and the investment to be purchased.
- I have reviewed all pages of the Investment Exchange Disclosure including the Investment Exchange Disclosure - Additional Investments page which includes additional exchanges.

Please explain the reasoning behind this exchange including specific details, such as change of investment objectives or change in risk.

Investment Exchange Disclosure - Investment Company Product Instructions

Please print, preferably in capital letters and black ink. All information requested is required unless optional is indicated.

The Investment Exchange Disclosure – Investment Company Product form is required when:

- When selling an A/T (front-end) share where the client paid a sales load at the time of purchase and the original purchase date is within the past 6 years with potential exposure to a front-end load, CDSC, STRF, surrender, or redemption fee or additional compensation, such as commission or investment advisory fee on the new product or investment account
- When selling a B/C (back-load) share and the sale resulted in a Contingent Deferred Sales Charge (CDSC) with potential exposure to a front-end load, CDSC, STRF, surrender, or redemption fee or additional compensation, such as commission or investment advisory fee on the new product or investment account
- When selling a no-load share and the sale resulted in a Short-Term Redemption Fee (STRF) with potential exposure to a front-end load, CDSC, STRF, surrender, or redemption fee or redemption fee or additional compensation, such as commission or investment advisory fee on the new product or investment account
- When selling a Unit Investment Trust (UIT) and the share is sold prior to the maturation date with potential exposure to a front-end load, CDSC, STRF, surrender, or redemption fee or additional compensation, such as commission or investment advisory fee on the new product or investment account
- When redeeming a cash position that was previously invested in an investment company product with potential exposure to a front-end load, CDSC, STRF, surrender, or redemption fee or additional compensation, such as commission or investment advisory fee on the new product or investment account

  Note that a separate Investment Exchange Disclosure is not required if you are purchasing a product which requires you to submit a Cambridge product disclosure with the investment exchange section built in (i.e. Variable Annuity Disclosure, Alternative Investment Disclosure, etc.).
