WealthPort Custodian Wrap Client Agreement and Application

This Client Agreement ("Agreement") is entered into by and between Cambridge Investment Research Advisors, Inc. (CIRA), a Federally Registered Investment Adviser, and the undersigned Client(s) (collectively referred to herein as "Client"). If Client's Advisor Representative (referred to hereafter as "financial professional") is registered as an financial professional with an Independent Registered Investment Adviser firm and is not registered as a financial professional with CIRA, then the Independent Registered Investment Adviser firm shall be considered a third-party to this Agreement and all references to financial professional shall include the Registered Investment Adviser firm with which the financial professional is registered. Whereby Client desires to open an account with CIRA for the purpose of participating in one or more WealthPort strategies selected by Client. CIRA or financial professional will direct the allocation of the assets based on the strategies selected. CIRA is a fiduciary for the purposes of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. A description of the services to be provided and the parties providing the services are set forth below:

1. SELECTION OF STRATEGIES: Client, with the guidance and advice of CIRA and the financial professional named below (so long as the named financial professional remains appointed to serve as financial professional for the account), will select a strategy that is most appropriately suited to Client's investment needs. CIRA and/or financial professional will obtain information about my specific financial situation and investment objectives. Client understands that CIRA may limit the number of times Client's account may be transferred between the available strategies in any 12-month period. Client understands and agrees that CIRA and the appointed financial professional are solely responsible for providing advice regarding the determination of a suitable strategy in light of Client's investment goals and financial position. Client will notify CIRA and the appointed financial professional of any subsequent changes to Client's investment goals, financial circumstances, or risk tolerance after WealthPort accounts are established. Any service provider and its agents utilized by CIRA and financial professional: (i) will rely on such determination, and (ii) will make no representations or recommendations to Client about the advisability or suitability of any investment including any mutual fund, any combinations of mutual funds, or other investments. Client further understands and agrees that if CIRA and the appointed financial professional hire any such service provider or its agents to act as agent and to provide certain administrative services, Client will not have a contractual or client relationship with any such service provider or its agents. An account will be established through CIRA with one or more WealthPort strategies. For some strategies a risk tolerance questionnaire will be completed to receive a risk tolerance score. The risk tolerance score will be used by CIRA to recommend a portfolio within the selected strategy that will be comprised of various securities and to create an Investment Policy Statement (IPS). In those strategies that do not require a risk tolerance questionnaire, Client's financial professional may still choose to utilize one. This is on a financial professional-by-financial professional basis and Client should discuss with his/her financial professional.

The Client's assets will be invested (i) in the Cambridge Asset Allocation Platform ("CAAP") managed by CIRA and invested in model portfolios that are created by an independent Investment Adviser ("Strategist"); (ii) in a Unified Managed Account ("UMA"), a single account managed by CIRA and invested in multiple Strategists model portfolios; (iii) in an Advisor-Directed account, managed by an financial professional and invested in model portfolios that are created by the financial professional; (iv) in a Team-Directed account, Client's financial professional affiliates with another financial professional who provides portfolio asset allocation services and serves as the Strategist, implementing transactions according to predetermined models. Your financial professional serves as a Relationship Manager and continues to provide service through education, evaluation and management of the relationship. In WealthPort Wrap accounts, CIRA and Client's financial professional will exercise discretion (as provided in Section 2 below) to purchase or sell securities as needed to maintain Client's selected WealthPort strategies and portfolios thereunder. Client may also impose reasonable restrictions on the management of each account. Such restrictions will be listed on the IPS or the Excluded and Restricted Assets form, which may be revised by Client from time to time and which may be relied upon by CIRA and financial professional. Client also understands that requests for restrictions will be handled on a best efforts basis. Client understands that a minimum account value is required and can be found under the Payment and Fees section of this application. Clients may choose to utilize a Unified Managed Account (UMA). A UMA offers the Client the ability to select multiple WealthPort strategies in one account. The UMA holds the investments recommended by each selected Strategist in a separate sleeve. Utilizing the proposal generation tools, the financial professional customizes the asset allocation models for a particular Client or selects proposed asset allocations for types of investors fitting Client's profile and investment goals. The financial professional then further customizes the portfolio by selecting the specific, underlying investment strategies or Investments in the portfolio to meet the Client's needs. The UMA strategy allocation should be presented to CIRA in whole percentages and sum to 100%. In the event that the IPS or the strategy allocation documentation does not display whole percentages, CIRA will generally round the allocation weight to the nearest whole percentage. If necessary, one or more allocation weights may be rounded inconsistently to the nearest whole percentage so that the sum of all allocations equals 100%. Once the financial professional has established the content of the portfolio, the overlay manager will implement trade orders based on the recommendations of the selected Strategists. Client may make cash additions to account at any time in minimum increments approved by CIRA and may withdraw assets upon request. Client understands there may be negative consequences to such withdrawals. In the event that Client withdraws sufficient assets to cause the account value of any account to fall below the required portfolio minimum, Client agrees that CIRA or financial professional may terminate this Agreement with respect to either that account only or all accounts maintained by Client. Client understands that WealthPort is intended to be a long-term investment strategy and that the withdrawal of assets may preclude Client from achieving the investment goals. Assets that Client intends to use to pay current debts, fund current living expenses, or fund a major planned expense such as the construction of a home should not be invested in an account. In the event that a strategy or model is removed from WealthPort, Client understands that with the guidance of his/her duly appointed financial professional, Client will need to select a strategy that is most appropriately suited to his/her investment needs within a reasonable amount of time. Otherwise, Client's account or accounts may be assigned to a strategy or model deemed appropriate for the stated investment and risk objective or Client's Agreement may be terminated. Upon termination of this Agreement, the account may be converted to a brokerage account and transactions in the converted account(s) will be processed at normal brokerage rates. In the event a conversion is not possible, Client's account will be closed and a check will be issued to the address of record. Closing Client's account could result in a taxable event. Client's duly appointed financial professional or CIRA will provide notification of this action(s) to the Client.

2. TRADING AUTHORIZATION: Client hereby grants CIRA, including financial professional, as his/her agent and attorney-in-fact with complete and unlimited discretionary trading authorization with respect to the purchase and sale of securities in Client's account(s). Other than as described in Section 8, CIRA and financial professional are not authorized to withdraw or transfer any money, securities, or property either in Client's name or otherwise without Client's express authorization.

Client further agrees that CIRA, financial professional, and its affiliates have absolute, unconditional, and continuing authority with respect to Client's account(s) to delegate to others: (i) authority to purchase or sell shares of mutual funds, stocks or exchange traded funds and otherwise make investments on Client's behalf in combinations of securities and (ii) authority to direct service providers and make changes to those combinations and investments from time to time. In addition, Client understands that CIRA and financial professional may not lend to or borrow any monies or securities from Client. Client understands that upon receipt of all required instructions and documentation for Client's account to be set up and funded in good order. CIRA, financial professional, and its affiliates may effect trading in Client's account through a third- party service provider, and this provider will give instructions to Client's financial professional to make any initial or subsequent investment with respect to Client's account. Client also understands that such service provider will not be liable to me for any lost opportunity profits or other damages resulting from any delay in investment. This trading authorization is a continuing one and shall remain in full force and effect and shall be relied upon until CIRA and financial professional have received a written trading authorization termination notice, which notice will be deemed to terminate this Agreement effective upon receipt.

3. CUSTODIAN: CIRA and financial professional have appointed or will appoint a Custodian (the "Custodian") to take and maintain possession of all of the assets in Client's account (the "account"). Neither CIRA, financial professional nor any "affiliate" (as defined in the rules and regulations under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended) will be the Custodian. Neither CIRA nor financial professional will have any liability with respect to custodial arrangements or the acts, conduct, or omissions of the Custodian. CIRA and financial professional may issue such instructions to Custodian as may be appropriate in connection with the settlement of transactions initiated by Client. All transactions authorized by this Agreement shall be consummated by payment or delivery by or to the Custodian of cash and securities due to or from the Client. Neither CIRA nor financial professional will be under any duty to supervise or direct the investment of any assets that are not in the account in the custody of the Custodian or readily available for delivery to the Custodian by the settlement date of any proposed transaction. Neither CIRA nor financial professional shall act as Custodian for Client or take possession of any funds or securities of Client, except to the extent that CIRA directly debits advisory fees or forwards securities and/ or checks to its clearing firm, if the clearing firm serves as Custodian of Client's assets. The broker-dealer, Custodian or other entity executing an order on behalf of Client shall promptly forward a notice of transaction to Client and to CIRA, unless Client instructs otherwise.

4. PROXIES: CIRA and the appointed financial professional do not vote proxies on Client's behalf. It is Client's responsibility to vote all proxies for securities held in Client's accounts being managed by CIRA. All proxy materials received by CIRA or the financial professional on Client's behalf will be sent directly to Client or a representative previously designated to be responsible for voting proxies. CIRA and financial professional may answer Client's questions regarding proxy voting materials in an effort to assist Client in determining how to vote the proxy. However, the final decision of how to vote the proxy rests with Client.

5. CLIENT AUTHORITY: If this Agreement is entered into by a trustee or other fiduciary, including but not limited to someone meeting the definition of fiduciary of an employee benefit plan subject to ERISA, such trustee or other fiduciary represents and warrants that Client's participation in an account is permitted by the relevant governing instrument of such plan, and that Client is duly authorized to enter into this Agreement. Client agrees to furnish CIRA and financial professional with such documentation, as they shall reasonably request with respect to the foregoing. Client further agrees to advise CIRA and financial professional of any event that might affect this authority or the validity of the Agreement. If applicable, Client additionally represents and warrants that the person executing and delivering this Agreement on Client's behalf is a "named fiduciary" (as defined under ERISA) who has power under the plan to appoint an investment manager. If Client is a corporation, the party executing this Agreement on behalf of Client represents that execution of this Agreement has been duly authorized by appropriate corporate action.

6. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST: Client appoints selected Custodian as the sole and exclusive introducing broker-dealer with respect to processing securities transactions in Client's account(s). Broker Dealer of Record and CIRA will utilize the service of the selected Custodian for trade execution. Client acknowledges and agrees that Client's account(s) will be carried by, and all securities transactions authorized by this Agreement shall be effected through the Custodian. The designated Custodian will provide statements as to the status of Client's account(s) and will charge Client such fees for its services as it charges other customers of CIRA for similar services. The fees charged by the custodian are in addition to the fees charged by CIRA as described in Section 16 below. Client understands and agrees that the agreed upon custodian provide clearing and custody services to CIRA and its Clients, which assist CIRA in providing services under this Agreement and which CIRA has taken into account in establishing its fees. CIRA will permit the custodian to aggregate transactions for Client's account with other Clients to improve the quality of execution.

Although Client will not be charged a commission for transactions in securities. Client should be aware that certain securities pay fees such as 12b-1 fees, a portion of which may be received by CIRA or the custodian. The amount of a mutual fund's 12b-1 fees is described in the Fund's prospectus under "fund expenses" and is reflected on the Fund's financial statements. 12b-1 fees and trail earned will be credited to the Client account at the clearing firm whenever possible. When 12b-1 fees and trails are received by the CIRA financial professional in his/her capacity as Registered Representative of Cambridge, the investment advisory fee will be lowered, or offset by that amount. Securities also charge various internal and administrative expenses related to the management of the securities; these expenses are paid by all securities investors. The Custodian credits to Client account(s) funds belonging to Client (such as dividends, interest, redemptions, and proceeds of corporate reorganizations) on the day such funds are received by them. These funds come to the custodian from issuers and various intermediaries, such as the Depository Trust Company. Periodically, certain of those intermediaries pass on to their participants some or all of the interest earned on funds while in the possession of the intermediary. To the extent the custodian receive a portion of such payments, they may retain them or pay a portion to CIR. Information regarding when the custodian credit Client's account(s) with funds due the accounts, when those funds are available to the account, and/or when Client's account(s) begin earning interest on the funds is available from the custodian, CIRA, or Client's financial professional. Some or all of the securities held in Client's account(s) may be advised and/or sponsored by an entity that also acts as a service provider to CIRA or the appointed with respect to WealthPort. Transfers between securities in WealthPort may be a taxable event. Securities held in Client's account(s) that are in "street name" or are being held by a securities depository are commingled with the same securities being held for other Clients of the agreed upon custodian. Client's ownership of these securities is reflected in Client's records. Subject to the provisions of any custodial agreement, Client has the right at any time to require delivery of any such securities for which have been fully paid.

7. RISK ACKNOWLEDGEMENT/LIMITATION OF LIABILITY: CIRA and financial professional do not guarantee the future performance of the account assets, any specific level of performance, or the success of any investment decision or strategy that may be implemented. Except as otherwise provided by law, CIRA and financial professional shall not be liable to Client for (i) any loss experienced by reason of any investment decision made or other action taken or omitted to be taken by any of them with the reasonable degree of care, skill, prudence, and diligence under the circumstances that a prudent person acting in a fiduciary capacity would use; (ii) any loss arising from the adherence by CIRA and financial professional to Client's instructions (whether oral or written); or (iii) any act or failure to act by the agreed upon custodian, and any other service provider to CIRA and financial professional acting in accordance with their instructions or pursuant to written agreement.

The federal and state securities laws and ERISA impose liabilities under certain circumstances on persons who act in good faith, and therefore, nothing herein shall in any way constitute a waiver or limitation on any rights which Client may have under those laws. Financial professional has discussed the risks inherent in the account Client selected. Client understands that all investments involve risk (the amount of which may vary significantly), that performance cannot be predicted or guaranteed, and that the value of each account will fluctuate due to market conditions and other factors. Client further understands that there is no guarantee that Client's investment objectives will be achieved. Neither CIRA nor financial professional shall have any liability for Client's failure to inform CIRA or financial professional in a timely manner of any material change in Client's personal information or financial circumstances, which might affect the manner in which Client's assets are allocated, or to provide CIRA or financial professional with any information as to Client's financial status as CIRA or financial professional may reasonably request. Client understands that it is Client's responsibility to ensure that CIRA and financial professional have the most current personal and financial information regarding Client's account. Because the standard of conduct imposed on investment advisors under certain state securities laws may differ from the standard imposed under other state securities laws, Client may be provided additional rights of action in circumstances other than those described in this section.

8. ASSIGNMENT/TERMINATION: This Agreement may not be assigned or transferred in any manner by any party without the written consent of all parties. All services continue in effect until terminated by giving notice to the other party. Written notice of at least 30 days is required unless all parties mutually agree on an earlier termination date. Upon termination of the Agreement, CIRA's obligation to actively manage or advise with respect to Client's account(s) will immediately terminate and CIRA or the financial professional thereafter will act only on the instructions of Client. Unless CIRA or financial professional receives instructions from Client, CIRA or financial professional will not buy, sell, reallocate, or rebalance securities in Client's account. CIRA will deliver securities in the account as instructed by Client or Client's financial professional unless Client requests that the account be liquidated. If an account is liquidated as a result of a termination notice, CIRA will have a period of 72 hours to begin liquidations unless CIRA and Client, or Client's financial professional, agree on a different time period. Proceeds will be payable to Client upon settlement of all transactions in the account. The client will be entitled to a prorated refund of any unearned account fees billed in advance based upon the number of days remaining in the month or quarter after the termination date. For account management fees billed in arrears, Cambridge will attempt to collect the fees owed to the financial professional on a best efforts basis. We may not be able to pull all of the fees from the client account if an ACAT is set to transfer the funds. If the ACAT is being processed at time of attempted fee collection, CIRA may need to refund the collected advisory fees from your compensation statement. Upon termination of this Agreement after five days from the opening of account, CIRA may retain up to $500 of the prepaid account fee for the current quarter. Termination of the Agreement does not affect the liabilities or obligations of the parties from transactions initiated prior to termination. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, assignment, termination, and transfer procedures relating to IRA and 403(b)(7) accounts are subject to provisions and restrictions of law, regulations, and Client's custodial agreement.

9. SEVERABILITY: If any provision of this Agreement shall be held or made non-enforceable by a statute, rule, regulation, decision of a tribunal or otherwise, such provision shall be automatically reformed and construed so as to be valid, operative, and enforceable to the maximum extent permitted by law or equity while most nearly preserving its original intent. The invalidity of any part of this Agreement shall not render invalid the remainder of this Agreement and, to that extent, the provision of this Agreement shall be deemed to be severable.

10. VALUATION: Any securities in an account shall be valued in a manner determined in good faith by CIRA to reflect fair market value. For any securities purchased within the account, the cost basis reflected in the confirmation and account statements is the actual purchase price including transactions charges. It is Client's responsibility to advise CIRA or Client's financial professional immediately if the cost basis information is portrayed inaccurately. CIRA will presume the accuracy of cost basis unless Client and financial professional notify CIRA to the contrary in writing within 10 days of receipt of a confirmation or statement that reflects an inaccurate cost basis. Statement calculations and figures should not be relied upon for tax purposes.

11. GOVERNING LAW: This Agreement shall be construed under laws of the state of Iowa, without giving effect to the conflicts of law principles thereof, but in a manner consistent with the Advisers Act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

12. RECEIPT OF DISCLOSURE BROCHURES: Client acknowledges receipt of CIRA's executed WealthPort Wrap Client Agreement and Application, the WealthPort Wrap Brochure, and ADV Part 2B (Brochure Supplement), and if applicable, the Client Relationship Summary (Form CRS), as required by the Advisers Act. Unless Client received the WealthPort Wrap Brochure and ADV Part 2B (Brochure Supplement) at least 48 hours prior to execution of this Agreement, Client may cancel this Agreement within five business days of execution without penalty by giving written notice of such cancellation to CIRA. In such case, Client shall be responsible for any transactions executed prior to receipt of written notice of cancellation. Client understands the investment approach, related risk factors, and the fees associated with investing in an account. Client has read and consents to the disclosures of conflicts of interest described in the WealthPort Wrap Brochure.

13. ENTIRE AGREEMENT: This Agreement represents the entire agreement between the parties with respect to the subject matter contained herein.

14. RISK TOLERANCE QUESTIONNAIRE: Client acknowledges responsibility to provide CIRA and financial professional with updated risk tolerance information as necessary and that CIRA and financial professional have the right to rely on any risk tolerance information provided by Client.

15. ACCOUNT CONFIRMATIONS AND STATEMENTS: No less frequently than quarterly, Client will receive a statement from the Custodian showing account transactions as well as positions held in the account at quarter-end. Client may receive from CIRA directly or through Client's financial professional an annual performance report. Some clearing firms used by CIRA to effect transactions in accounts may have the ability to suppress receipt of individual trade confirmations for accounts. Clients may request suppression of receipt of individual trade confirmation at Pershing or NFS by signing the Trade Confirmation Suppression form included in the WealthPort

Agreement and Application. All trade confirmation information will be provided by Pershing or NFS on the Client brokerage statement. Clearing firms that do not currently provide this option may in the future; if the capability to suppress trade confirmations is developed CIRA reserves the right to implement this option on the Client's behalf without notification to the Client.

Client acknowledges that neither CIRA nor financial professional will be responsible for the accuracy of any information disclosed in any such report or any report provided to CIRA or financial professional by the Custodian. Client should review the account statements provided by Custodian for accuracy, and promptly report any irregularities or inconsistencies found in Client's account statements. CIRA does not assume responsibility for the accuracy of information furnished by Client, Custodian or any other person, firm, or corporation authorized by Client to furnish information to CIRA or its financial professional. The scope of this Agreement is limited to the specific investment portfolio placed by the Client with CIRA. Client understands that CIRA and its financial professional rely on the information provided to them by the Client to determine the appropriate investment program, and Client agrees to advise CIRA or financial professional promptly of any changes in the Client's portfolio (of which CIRA or financial professional would not otherwise have knowledge) and of any changes in Client's investment objectives or risk tolerance.

16. QUARTERLY OR MONTHLY FEES AND CHARGES: As a participant in WealthPort, Client will pay CIRA and financial professional a flat fee or an annualized fee based on a percentage of the value of assets ("account fee") as set forth by the corresponding Exhibit. The account fee is the total fee charged to the account and includes: the Program fee (for clearing, custody, trading, and administrative costs), financial professional fee (for investment and relationship management services), and any Investment Strategist fees (for asset allocation services and trading models). Financial professionals may elect to absorb the program fee for their clients. The program fee will be paid by the client unless the financial professional verbally discloses that the program fee will be paid by the financial professional. If the financial professional pays the program fee, they will pay the program fee for all of their clients' WealthPort accounts.The Strategist fees are applicable to CAAP®, UMA and Team-Directed programs. If applicable, there may also be a one-time setup fee that is described in more detail below. The maximum financial professional fee for Advisor-Directed and Team-Directed programs is 2.25 percent. The maximum financial professional fee for the CAAP® and UMA programs is 2.15 percent. In all programs, the financial professional portion of the account fee is negotiable. Account fees are payable monthly or quarterly in advance or arrears for the Advisor-Directed and Team-Directed Programs, while account fees are payable monthly or quarterly in advance for the CAAP® and UMA programs. Account fees are calculated either on the basis of the market value of the account(s) on the last day of the previous month or quarter if fees are billed in advance or on the last day of the month or quarter in which services were rendered if fees are billed in arrears. The formula used for calculating the fee is market value multiplied by account fee percentage (as defined in the appropriate Exhibit) multiplied by the number of days in the billing cycle divided by the number of days in the year. All management fees will be deducted periodically (see Exhibit attached hereto for details) at the appropriate rate and will be debited based on the value of the assets under management on the respective market value date as indicated above unless Client and CIRA agree to directly bill Client. If directly billed an administrative fee may be applied. The first period will be prorated based on the funded date for accounts that bill in advance, and on signature date if billing in arrears. Subsequent years' annual asset management fees will be subject to the then current schedule of fees for CIRA. Additional deposits of funds may be subject to a fee when deposited in-between billing periods for accounts that bill in advance. The fee for additional deposits will be prorated. Investments made in the account may be subject to account transaction charges assessed by the Custodian, broker-dealer, or other entity handling the transaction. CIRA, in its sole discretion may permit Client to direct CIRA in writing to debit the account fee from an account owned or controlled by Client other than the account and may permit the aggregation of accounts owned or controlled by Client for purposes of calculating the account fee. There may be additional fees (i.e. a one-time setup fee), applicable to Client's account and will be evidenced in the corresponding Exhibit.

a. Setup fees: If at the time of the initiation of this Agreement, CIRA or financial professional provides other services to Client, CIRA or financial professional may charge Client a one time, non-refundable fee (see the Payment and Fees section of the WealthPort Application for the actual charge). With the one time setup fee reflecting the lesser of 1 percent of assets under management or $1000, Client acknowledges that the setup fee will be debited from Client's account as described in the Payment and Fees section of the WealthPort Application. Increases in account values due to appreciation, dividends, or interest on funds under management are not subject to the setup fee.

b. Investments made for Client involving assets managed under this Agreement may involve compensation paid to Cambridge or its registered representatives. The portion of such compensation normally paid to my financial professional may be used to offset fees due under this Agreement, if so agreed upon and indicated in the Payment and Fees section of the Application.

c. Initial account fee billing: If a CAAP® or UMA account is established on a date other than the last day of a calendar month or quarter, the initial account fee will be prorated for the remainder of the reporting period. The account fee for a UMA account generally will be debited on or about the 20th day of the month in which the account is opened and trading on or before the 15th of the month. UMA accounts that are open and trading after the 15th of the month are debited on or around the 5th of the following month for the initial account fee. The account fee for Advisor-directed, Team-directed, and CAAP programs will generally be debited by the 10th of the following month if opened and funded by the 15th. If opened and funded after the 15th, the account fees will be debited by the 25th of the following month. Subsequent account fee payments are due and will be debited at the beginning of each reporting period. The account fee is calculated on the value of the account assets under management as of the close of business on the last business day of the preceding reporting period as valued by an independent pricing service, where available, or otherwise in good faith as reflected on my custodial account statement. CIRA may, in its sole discretion, change the account fee calculation method by giving written notice to Client 30 days prior to the first reporting period in which the new calculation will be applied. Additional deposits of funds may be subject to a fee when deposited in between billing periods and the same prorated calculation method will apply. For Advisor-Directed and Team-Directed Programs, unlike CAAP® and UMA, CIRA does not automatically prorate the fees when the account is established on a date other than the last day of the calendar month or quarter. Instead, the financial professional must request that CIRA prorate the fee for the remainder of the reporting period via the Interim Debit Request Form.

d. Other charges: Client may also incur certain charges imposed by third-parties other than CIRA and financial professional in connection with investments made through an account including, among others, the following types of charges: securities or money market 12b-1 charges, sub-transfer agent fees, securities or money market investment management fees and administrative expenses, securities transaction fees, IRA and qualified retirement plan fees, exchange fees, and other charges required by law. CIRA, Custodian, and financial professional may receive a portion of these third-party fees. Further information regarding charges and fees assessed by securities is available in the appropriate Fund's prospectus. In certain circumstances, financial professional may receive additional benefits for recommending Clients who participate in WealthPort, or when more assets are held through the investment management platform. Benefits could include, but are not limited to, reduced technology, conference, platform, and E&O fees and costs.

Client understands that CIRA and financial professional, in connection with the performance of their respective services, shall be entitled to and will share in the account fee payable hereunder. CIRA shall not be compensated on the basis of a share of capital gains upon or capital appreciation of the securities or any portion of the securities of the account. Client acknowledges and agrees that the fee schedule set forth in the Application and in effect for Client's WealthPort account shall continue until 30 days after CIRA has notified Client in writing of any change in the amount of the account fee, at which time the new account fee will become effective, unless Client notifies CIRA in writing that the account is to be closed. If an account is closed within the first year by Client or as a result of withdrawals which bring the account value below the required minimum, CIRA reserves the right to retain the prepaid account fee (up to a maximum of $500) for the current reporting period, or cancel and rebill all transactions in the account at normal and customary brokerage compensation rates in order to cover the administrative cost of establishing the account(s). Such administrative costs may include data entry costs to open the account, costs associated with reconciling of positions in order to issue annual performance reports, and the cost of re-registering securities. CIRA agrees to disclose information related to this Agreement and its compensation received thereunder that is requested by Client in order to comply with reporting or disclosure requirements applicable to the Client. CIRA will disclose changes to the information provided to Client regarding services, status or compensation within reasonable period of time after CIRA becomes aware of the change.

Programs that involve "load" and "no-load" mutual funds, variable annuities, or variable life insurance will be subject to normal brokerage commissions and 12b-1 fees (ongoing servicing). CIRA's affiliated broker-dealer generally receives a portion of these fees.

17. AUTHORIZATION TO DEBIT ACCOUNT: Client authorizes CIRA to debit all account fees payable pursuant to Section 16 directly from Client's account or other account as authorized and referenced on the Payment and Fees section of the appropriate exhibit. It is agreed by CIRA and Client that the account fee and other charges associated with the account will be payable, first from free credit balances in Client's account(s), if any, and second, from the liquidation or withdrawal by CIRA of Client's shares of any money market fund or balances in any money market account. CIRA may in its sole discretion liquidate at any time a portion or all of the other assets, including individual stocks and bonds and mutual fund shares, in Client's account(s) to cover account fees and other charges.

18. EXCLUDED AND RESTRICTED ASSETS: A client may request to hold an excluded asset (any security that is not part of the account model in CAAP or UMA or restrict a security from being purchased in CAAP SMA strategy.). Client will be required to sign an Excluded and Restricted Assets form. Although the excluded assets will be held in an account that also includes assets that are subject to management through various strategies, the excluded or restricted assets will not be managed by CIRA or financial professional nor included in the WealthPort CAAP or UMA strategies. Unless otherwise agreed to in writing by CIRA, CIRA will not monitor, provide investment recommendations, exercise discretionary authority, or otherwise manage the excluded assets. As CIRA does not monitor excluded assets, the Client is responsible for supplying CIRA with the new symbol or CUSIP, prior to the effective date of the corporate action, to ensure the asset is properly restricted. Failure to do so may result in the position being liquidated upon discovery or during the course of normal trading events. The financial professional is authorized by the Client to provide instructions to CIRA for excluded or restricted assets held in the account. These instructions include but are not limited to trade instructions to sell the excluded assets or remove a restriction, reduce the quantity of the securities or cash amount, or provide an updated symbol or CUSIP due to a corporate action or reorganization event. New purchases and additional purchases of an excluded asset are generally prohibited. CIRA will not include the excluded assets in the calculations of the account fees charged for the account. Excluded assets may be subject to fees and charges other than the account fees, according to the terms in WealthPort Client Agreement.

19. ERISA ACCOUNTS: If Client's account is a plan subject to ERISA, Client appoints CIRA as an "investment manager" for purposes of ERISA, and CIRA acknowledges that it is a "fiduciary" within the meaning of Section 3(21) of ERISA (but only with respect to the provision of services described in Section 1 of this Agreement). CIRA represents that it is a Federally Registered Investment Adviser. Client's signatory and Client hereto represents and warrants that they have delivered to CIRA an accurate and complete copy of all documents governing the administrator of the ERISA plan and the investment of plan assets and that the information provided on the risk tolerance questionnaire, the risk tolerance score derived there from, and the Client approved investment restrictions and guidelines set forth on the IPS or the Excluded and Restricted Assets form for CAAP and UMA, accurately and completely set forth any limitations or restrictions with respect to plan investments contained in the plan documents. Financial professional agrees to obtain and maintain for the term of this Agreement a bond in the requisite amount and otherwise satisfy the requirements of Section 412 of ERISA, which such bond also includes coverage for CIRA and financial professional, and any of their respective officers, directors, and employees whose inclusion is required by law. Financial professional will provide evidence of the bond to CIRA upon execution of this Agreement.

20. APPOINTMENT OF AUTHORIZED AGENTS: Client hereby confirms that Client has granted CIRA the power to act as their Authorized Agent/Authorized Representative with respect to Client's account(s). As Client's Authorized Agent/Authorized Representative, CIRA may add a third-party provider, accept the third-party provider's resignation, and/or terminate the third-party provider on Client's behalf. In the event of a termination of a third-party provider and/or resignation of a Custodian, CIRA retains the right to appoint a successor third-party provider for the WealthPort, and on Client's behalf, CIRA may direct the transfer of Client's assets in accordance with the termination or other provisions. Such authorization includes accepting and executing new agreements with the successor third-party provider on Client's behalf. Notification of a successor third-party provider will be provided to Client. A third-party provider is defined as anyone outside of CIRA that provides services to WealthPort such as, but not limited to, record keepers and/or Custodians.

21. CONFIDENTIAL RELATIONSHIP: CIRA and financial professional agree to keep in strict confidence all information concerning the affairs of Client. CIRA holds in confidence all information it receives from Client, including personal information it collects from Client or receives from other entities in connection with any of the financial or investment management services provided to Client. CIRA also requires entities with whom it deals to restrict use of Client's information. A complete privacy statement concerning CIRA's privacy policy is available upon request. Client may obtain it in person from Client's financial professional, or through written request delivered to Cambridge Investment Research, Inc. Privacy Statement, 1776 Pleasant Plain Rd., Fairfield, IA 52556, or by calling 800-777-6080.

22. SERVICE TO OTHERS: It is understood that CIRA and its affiliates may perform investment advisory services for various clients. The Client agrees that CIRA may give advice and take action in the performance of its duties with respect to any of its other clients which may differ from advice given, or the timing and nature of action taken with respect to the Client.

Additionally, the advice given and actions taken at one office of CIRA or by one financial professional are often different (and in some cases may be opposite) from that offered at another office or by another financial professional. CIRA, its principals, affiliates, or employees may take actions for their own accounts that differs from the advice given to Client. This Agreement shall not be deemed to confer upon CIRA or financial professional any obligation to acquire for the Client a position in any security which CIRA, its principals, affiliates, or employees may acquire for its or their own accounts or for the account of any other Client. Representation by the Client: Client by executing and delivering this Agreement to CIRA represents:

- That Client understands that the terms hereof do not violate any obligation by which Client is bound, whether arising by contract, operation of law, or otherwise, and that the terms and conditions of this Agreement shall be binding upon Client.
- That the Client understands his or her responsibility to promptly inform financial professional or CIRA of changes to Client's address, financial situation or investment goals and objectives. Failure of notification of such changes could result in investment recommendations or management not meeting Client's needs.
- That Client understands that he or she may be able to invest directly into the investments without incurring the financial professional's fees charged under this Agreement.
- That Client understands that he or she may impose restrictions on the purchase of certain securities for Client's account. Client further understands that any such restriction on the purchase of certain securities must be communicated in writing to CIRA or financial professional, in the form and in accordance with the procedures specified by CIRA. CIRA and financial professional will use best efforts to comply with investment restrictions requested by Client.
- That Client understands that CIRA may determine from time to time, depending upon market conditions and other factors, to allocate assets among different securities, managers, mutual funds, etc. and that holding and/or converting investments from one medium to another involves certain inherent risks of loss. Neither CIRA nor financial professional can guarantee any results. Client further understands that CIRA cannot execute transactions for assets that are not in the account in the custody of the Custodian or readily available for delivery to the Custodian by the settlement date of any proposed transaction.
- That Client understands that all instructions given to or received by CIRA or financial professional either before or after Client's death or incapacity, but before receipt by CIRA or financial professional of confirmation of such death or incapacity and which is deemed reliable by CIRA or financial professional shall be binding on Client and any legal representatives (or successors), heirs or assigns, and CIRA and financial professional will be free from any liability arising from directions so received or given by Client.
- That Client understands that this Agreement is an Iowa contract no matter where the Agreement was executed, and shall be governed by and construed according to the laws of Iowa. Any notice to be given to CIRA or its affiliates under this Agreement shall be addressed to CIRA at its principal place of business. Any notice to be given to Client shall be addressed to Client at Client's last known address as the same appears on the company's records.
- That Client understands that by signing this document, Client agrees that he or she has received copies of all required disclosure documents including the WealthPort Wrap Brochure, financial professional's ADV Part 2B (Brochure Supplement), and if applicable, the Client Relationship Summary (Form CRS), as required by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission
- That Client understands and agrees that all communications sent to Client's account address of record, whether by mail, telegraph, messenger, or email address provided by Client, shall be deemed delivered to Client personally, whether actually received or not. Client agrees that CIRA or its affiliates may send all communications by email if Client provides an email address. CIRA or its affiliates may continue to send communications to the email address provided by WealthPort Wrap Client Agreement and Application until CIRA is notified in writing of a new email address or that Client will no longer have an email address.
- Client agrees to discuss in good faith with CIRA and financial professional mutually agreeable solutions with respect to any investment objective that CIRA and financial professional cannot satisfy.
- Client understands that when utilizing the management services of CIRA and financial professional, Client will be required to establish an account through a trading platform that is approved by CIRA as described in the Exhibit attached hereto.
- Client further understands that Cambridge, an affiliated broker-dealer, may act as broker for transactions and will receive a portion of ticket charges and/or commission paid by Client.
- Client understands that not all Investment Advisers require their clients to use a specific broker-dealer or Custodian and the fees charged by another broker-dealer or Custodian may be higher or lower than those charged by Cambridge or other Custodians used by CIRA.
- Client understands that Client may be able to invest directly into the investments without incurring fees charged under this Agreement. In addition, some or all of the investments in which Client's account will be invested may have additional advisory fees and expenses (including, in some cases, exchange fees and front-end or ongoing sales charges).

23. INDEMNIFICATION: To the extent not prohibited by law, Client shall indemnify financial professional, Cambridge Investment Research, Inc. CIRA and its employees, agents, officers, directors, shareholders, affiliates, successors and each person or entity who is or may be deemed to be controlling, controlled by or under common control with CIRA from and against any and all claims, demands, liabilities, damages, causes of action, proceedings, suits, judgments, losses, costs and expenses, including reasonable attorneys' fees, court costs and arbitration costs of any nature, based upon, arising out of or in connection with, or relating to, Client's negligence, recklessness, willful misconduct, material violation of any laws, rules or regulations, breach of this Agreement or arising as a result of (i) the performance by CIRA and/or financial professional of its/his/her duties under this Agreement, or (ii) carrying out or relying on any Instructions and any information provided or made available to CIRA and/or financial professional by Client, its Custodian or any other agent of the Client, except to the extent that such Losses result directly from the negligence, willful misconduct or fraud of the financial professional or CIRA in providing the services under this Agreement; and (iii) CIRA and/or financial professional's reliance on inaccurate information provided by Client; Any indemnity given to financial professional or CIRA under this Agreement is in addition to, and without prejudice to, any indemnity allowed to CIRA or financial professional under applicable law. This indemnification provision and Client's obligations provided herein, are continuing, will survive the termination of the Agreement, irrespective of any change or changes at any time in the personnel thereof for any cause. Notwithstanding the foregoing, nothing contained in this paragraph or elsewhere in this Agreement shall constitute a waiver by Client of any of its legal rights under applicable U.S. federal securities laws, ERISA or any other laws whose applicability is not permitted to be contractually waived.

24. AUTHORITY AND OWNERSHIP: I will provide the broker dealer of record with all necessary authorizations from third parties to open accounts and effect transactions in securities under Broker Dealer of Record Client Agreement. I will be the owner of securities purchased, held, and sold by me through the broker dealer of record

25. NO ADVICE: I understand that Cambridge provides no tax or legal advice and that my financial professional may provide tax or legal advice in his/her separate capacities as a CPA, enrolled agent, or attorney.

26. APPOINTMENT OF CAMBRIDGE AS AGENT: I have appointed the broker dealer of record as my agent for the purpose of carrying out my directions with respect to the purchase or sale of securities. To carry out its duties, the broker dealer of record is authorized to open or close brokerage accounts, place and withdraw orders, provide information to third parties, and take such other steps as are reasonable to carry out my directions. As applicable, I authorize the broker dealer of record to retrieve my historical transaction and position data from former broker-dealers and/or product sponsors where my account(s) are or have been held, and from Albridge Solutions.

27. AMENDMENTS: Upon thirty (30) days written notice CIRA may amend the terms and conditions set forth in this Agreement in any respect from time to time and any such amendments shall become effective subsequent to the thirty day notice period written notice to you at your last known address, including an electronic address if authorized by you, as shown in the records of Cambridge. If you do not agree to the amended terms and/or conditions you may choose to terminate the Agreement. However, subsequent to the 30 day notice, your continued account activity constitutes your agreement to be bound by such amendments to these terms and conditions.

28. EXTRAORDINARY EVENTS: CIRA shall not be liable for loss caused directly or indirectly by war, terrorism, natural disasters, government restrictions, exchange or market rulings, or other conditions beyond CIRA's control, including but not limited to extreme market volatility or trading volumes.

29. COMMUNICATIONS: All communications sent to the account address of record, whether by mail, telegraph, messenger, or email address provided on the WealthPort Wrap Client Agreement and Application, or otherwise, shall be deemed given to the undersigned personally, whether actually received or not. I agree that CIRA may send all communications by email if I provide an email address. CIRA may continue to send communications to the email address on the WealthPort Wrap Client Agreement and Application until CIRA is notified in writing of a new email address or that I will no longer have an email address.

30. NET INVESTABLE ASSETS: A definition of investable assets includes:

(i) securities (as defined in the Securities Act), except for securities of issuers controlled by the Investor ("Control Securities"), (exceptions apply, see Compliance);

(ii) futures contracts or options thereon held for investment purposes;

(iii) physical commodities held for investment purposes;

(iv) swaps and other similar financial contracts entered into for investment purposes;

(v) real estate held for investment purposes;

(vi) cash and cash equivalents held for investment purposes.

31. INVESTMENT INFORMATION ABOUT PROCEDURES FOR OPENING A NEW ACCOUNT WITH CIRA: To help the government fight the funding of terrorism and money laundering activities, federal law requires all financial institutions to obtain, verify, and record information that identifies each person who opens an account. What does this mean to you? When you open an account, CIRA will ask for your name, address, date of birth, and other information that will allow us to identify you. CIRA will also ask to see your driver's license or other identifying documents and record specific information on your account application in order to comply with federal law, unless circumstances provide for non-documentary verification. If CIRA must use the non-documentary verification procedure, your signature(s), serves as your written authorization to us to proceed with non-documentary identification verification. If you refuse to authorize us to verify your identity, CIRA, at its discretion, may refuse to accept your account pursuant to the requirements of, and in compliance with, the USA PATRIOT Act, Section 326 - Customer Identification Program.

32. INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE DEFINITIONS:

Current Income – Investors who have a primary investment goal of a predictable stream of current income. These investors seek investments that will, to the extent possible, protect their principal investment from market fluctuations.

High Current Income – Investors who have a primary investment goal of immediate income from their investments. These investors seek income producing investments.

Growth & Income – Investors who have a primary investment goal of both appreciation of their principal investment and some current income. These investors are willing to accept moderate risk and potential loss of principal during market fluctuations, or potential loss of principal and illiquidity in their investments.

Growth – Investors who have a primary investment goal of appreciation of their principal investment and little focus on current income. These investors use this approach seeking increases in market value but are also willing to accept moderate to high risk and potential loss of principal during market fluctuations, or potential loss of principal and illiquidity of their investments.

Speculation – Investors who have a primary investment goal of maximum appreciation of their principal investment and short-term trading profits. These investors also accept the maximum risks associated with speculative investments, including the potential for an entire loss of principal and illiquidity of their investments.

Secondary Investment Objectives:

Secondary investment objectives allow for additional investments to be made outside of the primary investment objective for the registration/ account(s). This additional investment, while outside of the objective identified above, represents a small percentage of the portfolio and thereby does not affect the overall investment objective.

33. SECONDARY INVESTMENT OBJECTIVES: Secondary investment objectives allow for additional investments to be made outside of the primary investment objective for the registration/ account(s). This additional investment, while outside of the objective identified above, represents a small percentage of the portfolio and thereby does not affect the overall investment objective.

34. RISK TOLERANCE DEFINITIONS:

Conservative – Investor is seeking to preserve principal in their account with minimal risk. These investors are willing to accept lower income or returns, and their account may not keep pace with inflation.

Moderate-Conservative – Investor is willing to accept low risk to their initial principal, including low volatility, to seek a modest level of portfolio returns.

Moderate – Investor is willing to accept some risk to their initial principal and tolerate some volatility to seek higher returns. These investors understand money invested could be lost due to market fluctuation.

Moderate-Aggressive – Investor is willing to accept significant risk to their initial principal, including high volatility, to seek higher returns over long-term investing. These investors may endure large losses in favor of potentially higher long-term returns.

Aggressive – Investor is willing to accept maximum risk to their initial principal to aggressively seek maximum returns. These investors understand that most, or all, of the money invested potentially could be lost.

35. LIQUIDITY NEEDS:

Annual expenses – might include mortgage payments, rent, long-term debts, utilities, alimony or child support payments, etc.

Special expenses – might include a home purchase, remodeling a home, a car purchase, education, medical expenses, etc.

36. TRUSTED CONTACT: If we are unable to reach you or have concerns about your health, you authorize us, but not require us, to contact the person listed in the Trusted Contact Information section of the WealthPort Wrap Application, and to disclose information about you in order to confirm the specifics of your current contact information, health status, and the identity of any legal guardian, executor, trustee, or holder of a power of attorney.

37. PRE-DISPUTE ARBITRATION AND DISCLOSURE AGREEMENT: The following disclosure is required by various regulatory bodies, but should not limit the applicability of the following arbitration provision to or in any claim or controversy which may arise between you and CIRA. This Agreement contains a pre-dispute arbitration agreement, the parties agree as follows:

a. All parties to this agreement are giving up the right to sue each other in court, including the right to a trial by jury, except as provided by the rules of the arbitration forum in which a claim is filed.

b. Arbitration awards are generally final and binding; a party's ability to have a court reverse or modify an arbitration award is very limited.

c. The ability of the parties to obtain documents, witness statements, and other discovery is generally more limited in arbitration than in court proceedings.

d. The arbitrators do not have to explain the reason(s) for their award unless, in an eligible case, a joint request for an explained decision has been submitted by all parties to the panel at least 20 days prior to the first scheduled hearing date.

e. The panel of arbitrators will typically include a minority of arbitrators who were or are affiliated with the securities industry.

f. The rules of some arbitration forums may impose time limits for bringing a claim in arbitration. In some cases, a claim that is ineligible for arbitration may be brought in court.

g. The rules of the arbitration forum in which the claim is filed, and any amendments thereto, are hereby incorporated into this Agreement.

h. Pre-arbitration discovery is generally more limited than and different from court proceedings.

i. Any party's right to appeal or seek modifications of rulings of the arbitrators is strictly limited.

j. The rules of some arbitration forums may impose time limits for bringing a claim in arbitration. In some cases, a claim that is ineligible for arbitration may be brought in court. If at the time a demand for arbitration is made or an election or notice of intention to arbitrate is served, the claims sought to be arbitrated would have been barred by the relevant statute of limitations or other time bar, any party to this Agreement may assert the limitations as a bar to the arbitration by applying to any court of competent jurisdiction, and the parties expressly agree that any issues relating to the application of a statute of limitations or other time bar, are referable to such a court. The failure to assert such bar by application to a court, however, shall not preclude its assertion before the arbitrators. This agreement to arbitrate does not constitute a waiver of the right to seek a judicial forum where such waiver would be void under the federal securities laws.

k. The rules of the arbitration forum in which the claim is filed, and any amendments thereto, are hereby incorporated into this Agreement.

l. The award of the arbitrators or of the majority of them shall be final, and judgment upon the award rendered may be entered in any court, state or federal, having jurisdiction.

m. No person shall bring a putative or certified class action to arbitration, nor seek to enforce any pre-dispute arbitration agreement against any person who has initiated in court a putative class action; or who is a member of a putative class action who has not opted out of the class with respect to any claims encompassed by the putative class action until:

1. the class certification is denied; or
2. the class is decertified; or
3. the Client is excluded from the class by the court.

Such forbearance to enforce an agreement to arbitrate shall not constitute a waiver of any rights under this Agreement except to the extent stated herein.

You agree and CIRA agrees, that all controversies which may arise between us, including any dispute involving Cambridge Investment Research, Inc. or CIRA's present or former agents, employees, officers, and directors and including, but not limited to those involving transactions in any account you have individually or jointly with or on behalf of another party at Cambridge, including those in which you have a beneficial interest, or the construction, performance, or breach of this or any other agreement between us, whether entered into prior, on, or subsequent to the date hereof, shall be fully and finally determined by binding arbitration conducted before, in accordance with and subject to the Commercial Arbitration Rules of the American Arbitration Association ("AAA"). Arbitration shall be conducted by a single arbitrator unless otherwise agreed upon by the parties. Arbitration shall take place in Des Moines, Iowa and the arbitrator(s) shall adhere to the laws of the State of Iowa. Any arbitration under this Agreement will be conducted pursuant to the Federal Arbitration Act.

- A copy of this arbitration agreement is hereby given to you, who shall acknowledge receipt thereof on this Agreement.
- If you file a complaint in court against CIRA that contains claims that are subject to arbitration pursuant to this arbitration agreement, CIRA may seek to compel arbitration of the claims that are subject to arbitration. If CIRA seeks to compel arbitration of such claims, Cambridge must agree to arbitrate all of the claims contained in the complaint if you so request. If CIRA seeks to compel arbitration of the claims you have filed in court that are subject to arbitration, you expressly agree to reimburse all fees, costs and expenses incurred by CIRA to enforce the arbitration provisions of this agreement unless FINRA arbitration procedures permit the claim to be filed in court or enforcement of this provision would limit or contradict FINRA arbitration procedures.

By signing the WealthPort Wrap Client Agreement and Application, you acknowledge that you are aware that this agreement contains a binding arbitration provision that may be enforced by the parties.

By signing below, I attest that (1) the information provided on this WealthPort Wrap Client Agreement and Application (this "Wrap Application") and the identification presented to verify my identity are true and accurate; (2) I am solely responsible for reviewing this Wrap Application for accuracy and completeness; (3) I agree to notify Cambridge in writing immediately of any change to the information I have provided; (4) I acknowledge receipt of the executed WealthPort Wrap Client Agreement and Application, the WealthPort Wrap Brochure, and my financial professional's ADV Part2B (Brochure Supplement); and (5) I attest that I have received the Form CRS and Reg BI Disclosure, as applicable, prior to or at the time of the recommendation to establish this account.

I understand Cambridge may use third-parties to perform various services and administrative tasks. By signing below, I authorize sharing of my nonpublic personal information in accordance with the Cambridge Privacy Policy (appended below). I will contact the Cambridge Compliance Department by calling 800-777-6080 if I do not want this information shared with non-affiliated third parties. I consent to the review of all email correspondence exchanged between me and my financial professional. I acknowledge that such review is required of Cambridge pursuant to regulation.

If this account is owned or controlled by more than one individual or entity, "I" refers to all account owners. Under penalties of perjury, I certify that: (1) the number shown on this form is my correct taxpayer identification number (or I am waiting for a number to be issued to me); and (2) I am not subject to backup withholding because I am exempt from backup withholding, or I have not been notified by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) that I am subject to backup withholding as a result of a failure to report all interest or dividends, or the IRS has notified me that I am no longer subject to backup withholding; and (3) I am a U.S. citizen or other U.S. person; and (4) The FATCA code(s) entered on this form (if any) indicating that I am exempt from FATCA reporting is correct. I understand that if I have been notified by the IRS that I am subject to backup withholding as a result of dividend or interest underreporting and I have not received a notice from the IRS advising that backup withholding is terminated, I must cross out item 2 above.

I understand that the Client Agreement contains a pre-dispute binding arbitration and disclosure agreement, as well as certain other provisions which may substantially affect my rights. By signing below, I acknowledge receipt of this pre-dispute binding arbitration and disclosure agreement, and that I have received, read, and understand this entire Wrap Application, including the Client Agreement. I agree to be bound by, and to abide by, all the terms and conditions set forth in this Wrap Application, including the Client Agreement which I acknowledge is incorporated herein.

FACTS	WHAT DOES CAMBRIDGE DO WITH YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION?
Why?	Financial companies choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some, but not all, sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you how we collect, share, and protect your personal information. Please read this notice carefully to understand what we do.
What?	The types of personal information we collect and share depend on the product or service you have with us. This financial information can include, but is not limited to, the following: • Social Security Number • Investment experience • Assets • Account numbers • Income • Account transactions • Contact information • Account balance When you are no longer our customer, we continue to share your information as described in this notice.
How?	All financial companies need to share customers' personal information to run their everyday business. In the section below, we list the reasons financial companies can share their customers' personal information, the reasons Cambridge chooses to share, and whether you can limit this sharing.

Reasons we can share your personal information:	Does Cambridge Share?	Can you limit this sharing?
For our everyday business purposes – Such as to process your transaction, provide certain services, maintain your account(s), respond to court orders and legal investigations, or report to credit bureaus	Yes	No
For our marketing purposes – To offer our products and services to you	Yes	No
For joint marketing with other financial companies	Yes	No
For our affiliates' everyday business purposes – Information about your transactions and experiences	Yes	No
For our affiliates' everyday business purposes – Information about your creditworthiness	No	We don't share
For our affiliates to market to you	Yes	Yes
For nonaffiliates to market to you – Only if your financial professional leaves Cambridge, retires or sells his or her practice	Yes	Yes

To limit our sharing	Call 888-245-0452 or visit JoinCambridge.com. Please note: If you are a new customer, we can begin sharing information 30 days from the date we sent this notice. When you are no longer our customer, we continue to share your information as described in this notice. However, you can contact us at any time to limit our sharing.
Questions?	Call 888-245-0452 or visit JoinCambridge.com.

Who we are
Who is providing this notice?	This notice is being provided on behalf of Cambridge Investment Research, Inc. and its affiliates: Cambridge Investment Research Advisors, Inc., Continuity Management Group, LLC. and TBS Agency, Inc. ("Cambridge").
What we do
How does Cambridge protect my personal information?	To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings. Cambridge trains its associates on the proper handling of personal information and requires companies that help provide services to you to protect the confidentiality of personal information they receive.
How does Cambridge collect my personal information?	We collect your personal information, for example, when you: • Open an account • Direct us to buy securities • Give us your contact information • Seek advice about your investments • Enter into an investment advisory contract We also collect your personal information from others, such as credit bureaus, affiliates, or other companies.
Why can't I limit all sharing?	Federal law gives you the right to limit only: • Sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes – information about your creditworthiness • Affiliates from using your information to market to you • Sharing for nonaffiliates to market to you State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing. See below for more on your rights under state law.
What happens when I limit sharing for an account I hold jointly with someone else?	Your choice will apply to everyone on your account – unless you tell us otherwise.
Definitions
Affiliates	Companies related by common ownership or control. They can be financial and nonfinancial companies.
Nonaffiliates	Companies not related by common ownership or control. They can be financial and nonfinancial companies. • Nonaffiliates may include your financial professional's company and investment advisor firm, your financial professional's new broker-dealer, and investment adviser firm if your financial professional chooses to leave Cambridge, and other broker-dealers and investment adviser firm designated by your financial professional if he or she leaves Cambridge, retires, or sells his or her practice.
Joint Marketing	A formal agreement between nonaffiliated financial companies that together market financial products or services to you. • Our joint marketing partners include banks, credit unions, retirement plans, and other financial institution programs.
Other important information
We also comply with more restrictive state laws to the extent they apply. For example, if you reside in Vermont or California, we will automatically opt you out of sharing your information with nonaffiliates for marketing purposes unless you have provided Cambridge with written authorization to opt you in to such sharing. Further, if you reside in California, you have the right to know what personal information is being collected, whether that information is sold or disclosed and to whom, and the right to stop the sale of your personal information. For additional information, please refer to the table detailing your rights under California law at JoinCambridge.com.
